

Mosaic Press
 178 pages, 6 x 9
 Trade Paper
 $18.95 (CAD $24.95)
 ISBN: 9781771614511
 May 2019
 Rights: WOR X UK & EUR
 Fiction

TO ORDER:
 T: (800) 888-4741
 F: (312) 337-5985
 E: orders@ipgbook.com
www.ipgbook.com

Hockey Night in the Rough Towns

Five Stories

Jerold Wadsworth

Hockey Night in the Rough Towns is a book of five charming stories about small-town Ontario life, folk and their love of wintry creeks, ponds and shinny. Jerold Wadsworth has raised our national literature of hockey to a new level – humour, pathos, drama, and perfect characterizations. His stories, set in the present and the past, are filled with a subtle wit and humour; this is a beautifully written, affectionate and engaging book, telling us about small-town Ontario life and drama – and hockey. The author’s portrait of vivid characters and his ability to capture the true folk speech of Canada makes him an obvious heir to the tradition of Leacock.

Jerold Wadsworth has spent almost a half century perfecting his craft. He grew up in the small towns of Southwestern Ontario, Muskoka, and in Markham, Ontario before studying journalism and playing varsity hockey at the University of Western Ontario. He served as long-time Professor of English Literature and Humanities at Dawson College – where he was also a founding member of the alternative Dawson New School. Jerry Wadsworth’s previous writing work has included script development, writing for film and television documentaries, research and story development for media projects in Canadian History, as well as comic sketches for CBC radio, and more. This is Jerold Wadsworth’s first book.

This book will appeal to lovers of old time hockey stories and will have local interest for Ontario

Competitive Titles:

My Undiscovered Country | 9781771612821 | $14.99 | Mosaic Press | January 2018

A Face Like the Moon | 9781771613392 | $14.95 | Mosaic Press | January 2018